

Health & Safety Policy

Wynne Construction is a leading construction company operating throughout North and Mid Wales and the North West of England.

The company is committed to ensuring the health and safety of all its employees, its subcontractors, its clients, members of the public and all who come into contact with the company or who may be affected by the company's activities.

The company complies with its obligations as set out in the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974, and particularly the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations 1999 and all associated legislation and has implemented a formal health and safety management system which sets out arrangements and procedures to ensure compliance with these obligations and the requirements of OHSAS 18001:2007.

This Policy has been communicated to all employees so that they are aware of their individual responsibilities. It requires them to work in a safe manner so that they do not endanger themselves, their colleagues or any other person, and do not put plant, equipment or work at risk. Appropriate training is provided by the company and arrangements are also made for employees and management to consult on health and safety issues.

Furthermore, as part of its commitment to ensuring the welfare and health and safety of its employees and all those who are affected by the company's activities, the company regularly reviews its health and safety performance and its health and safety policy. A continual improvement process ensures that objectives and targets are set to ensure the desired performance improvements are achieved.

The Policy is available to interested parties on request.
